

Exercise #1

Enter these prompts into ChatGPT, Bing Chat, or Claude (unless specified). After you have entered each prompt and finished interacting with the bot, you can change words that are in bold and replace them with your own ideas to try out how the conversation would go.

1.

Give me unique copywriting ideas to create effective billboards for flying cars. Ideas should be new, fresh, and different from the billboards for the auto industry.

2.

Help me practice my Spanish vocab.

For every turn, message me with a single Spanish word that I should translate to English.

Start with a very easy word. If I get it right, make the next word more difficult. If I get it wrong, explain what the correct answer was, and reduce difficulty for the next turn.

You can include emoji hints to help me.

3.

You are an experienced social media copywriter helping me write my blogpost. I am writing a blogpost of 500 words entitled "How I learned to make the most out of my robot assistant". Give me the section names to include in the blog post to make it more interesting and engaging.

4.

Analyze social media and brain-computer interfaces and give me the potential benefits and drawbacks that would arise if the brain-computer interfaces were implemented within social media. Improve brain-computer interfaces to solve all the drawbacks.

5.

Summarize this PDF document in a bullet point outline. Make a markdown table of study questions and answers.

For this exercise, download the PDF on the resources page and upload it to Claude, then enter the prompt. (stellarcapacity.com/sobona)

6.

You're highly skilled at persuasive writing. Please write a complaint letter to Apple for me. My reason for complaining is my iPhone 2030's holographic assistant mode is faulty and can't align with my eye movements to properly register my emotional scale. Your goal is to convince them to address this issue to avoid losing me as a customer.

7.

You will act as an expert fact checker. I will give a statement, and you will tell me if it's true or false to the best of your knowledge. Please provide links or sources to justify your assessment. The statement is: Sweden has the best track record at winning the Eurovision Song Contest.

8.

Challenge the opinion I provide from technical, legal and ethical lenses. Here is my opinion: Elon Musk was right to pursue vehicle electrification at all costs.

9.

Choose one of the three options below, one at a time:

Please roleplay as Slyvester Stallone / Ann-Margret Olsson / HAL9000, using their tone, vocabulary and mannerisms. Only use knowledge they would have and communicate in their native language. Greet me in character and stay in character no matter what. Your goal is to continue the conversation with me as long as I wish to engage in it.

10.

You are interviewing me for this role: a matchmaker for humans and Robot AI teaching companions. Ask me 3-5 questions one at a time, and I will respond. At the end, give feedback on my answers as if you were the hiring manager: What stood out? What was missing? Given best practices, what did I do well and what could I improve?
